The manufacturer specifies a welded 2-3/8-inch outside-diameter steel frame, durable thermoplastic-coated seating and stainless-steel fasteners. The family supports park, campground, recreation and public seating applications where the exact seat style, length and attachment method matter. The inground version requires a manufacturer-approved footing design; depth, concrete and site conditions should be checked before installation. Matching powder-coated frame and seating colors are selected during ordering, not separate size or mounting configurations. Optional center arm and anti-skateboard kits are independently selected when compatible; they are not included simply because the base bench is ordered. Other 940 and 942 designs differ in the backrest, seating width, pattern, length or mounting and should be compared as separate SKUs.
