Description

Make the most of this pre-season by incorporating this Reactor by Champion Barbell® Heavy Medicine Balls into your players training program. Instead of isolating just a few muscles, the medicine ball can be safely integrated into most exercises, so athletic trainers can easily develop a full-body conditioning routine for their players. Thanks to the heavy weight of the ball and free range of motion, athletes can train smarter, completing single-leg squats one day and lying chest tosses the next for a varied workout routine that engages every muscle.

- Medicine balls can be integrated into nearly any fitness or exercise routine for a full-body workout
- Allows users to target and activate a variety of muscle groups, including back, arms and abdominals
- Heavyweight design is great for resistance training programs
- Helps reduce the risk of injury and improve overall balance and strength

- Available in a variety of weight options, each of which are designed in a distinct color for simple identification
